PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Condition of Affairs In That Far Off Land.

LETTER TO PRESIDENT.

General Luke Wright, Governor of The Philippine Islands Discusses Government of That Country.

IT IS AN INTERESTING DOCUMENT

Washington, September 26.—President Roosevelt is in receipt of a letter from General Luke Wright, governor of the Philippines, in which the governor discusses frankly some of the conditions which he encounters in directing the government of the islands. Under date of August 15, General Wright wrote in part:

"The effect of the continued discussion as to the capacity of the Filipino for self-government and his immediate or ultimate independence is having its effect here and makes our task more difficult than it otherwise would be. The less a man is equipped with intelligence and those qualities which make for good citizenship the more easily can he be persuaded that he is the possessor of all these qualities. This people have their full share of ambition and vanity, and they also have their full share of reckless, half formed characters, who are ready for intrigue in any direction which promises them profit or power. It is this class which has largely given force and direction to the Aglipayan movement and has recruited its ranks from the ignorant and dangerous elements.

"In this general connection I may say to you as a matter of information that the agitation in the United States for Filipino independence, and the spoken and written utterances of prominent men there, who are urging it, are all brought here and published in the native newspapers, and are being made the texts for editorials insisting that the Filipino people are now ready to become an independent nation. The effect of all this if distinctly injurious Its tendency is to restore the influence of the old insurrection leaders and to make them active in preaching the old propaganda. This, in turn, has the effect of demoralizing and weakening the more conservative and thoughtful Filipino, who fear that if they speak out they would be considered the enemies of their people and lose their prestige with them. Those of the more prominent and best educated and who naturally have their ambitions, are inclined to join in the general cry."

Harvey Shope Laid to Rest.

On Tuesday morning the body of Harvey Shope who died at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, last Wednesday, while in the service of Uncle Sam was consigned to its last resting place, at Snow Shoe. The body was not embalmed and was sent to his parents home in an awful condition, and could not be viewed by the friends. The undertaker at Snow Shoe took charge of the remains and gave out the statement that no marks at all were on the body, only where he had been vaccinated on the arm. The body was shipped by Adams Express from the Fort in Kansas and the friends at Snow Shoe were compelled to pay $60.00 express before they could take it from the office. It seems strange, that Uncle Sam would not stand the express of sending this young man home, after he had volunteered in his service for the protection of his country. The relatives and friends should look this matter up and see who is to blame.

He was laid away with military honors, three volleys were fired over his grave by a squad of soldiers out of Co. B., under command of Sergeant William Brown, the other members present were Corporal Roger T. Bayard, privates Wm. Rowe, Clarence McCafferty, Linn Blackford, Gladstone Taylor and Ralph Trafford. The pall-bearers were Lewis and James Nevel, Jerry Gunsalus and Ferd Reese. Interment was made at Gillentown.

—The Two Johns will be the next attraction at Garman's opera house. The date is September 29th.

COL. EDWARD A. IRVIN.

Nominated by Acclamation for Our State Senator.

The Republican conferees of the 34th senatorial district, composed of Clinton, Centre and Clearfield counties, met Friday afternoon at the Fallon house in Lock Haven.

The conferrees were called to order in the parlor of the hotel by J. P. O'Laughlin, Esq., of Clearfield and an organization was effected by the election of S. H. Wigton of Philipsburg as chairman, who was given authority to select his secretaries. J. E. Hedding of Morrisdale and W. H. Rumberger of Renovo were chosen as secretaries of the conference. After stating the object for which the conference was called, Chairman Wigton said he was ready to receive nominations for state senator.

Lewis Hoover of Lock Haven placed Col. E. A. Irvin of Curwensville in nomination and Capt. W. J. Leahy of Falls Creek seconded the nomination. Mr. Hoover said that he had known Col. Irvin as a boy, as a man, as a soldier and as a Christian gentleman and he took pleasure in naming him as the choice of the Republicans of Clinton and Clearfield counties for senator of the Thirty-fourth district.

Hon. W. M. Allison placed Henry C. Quigley, Esq., in nomination as the choice of Centre county and the nomination was seconded by Mr. Wigton.

Before a vote was taken Mr. Quigley and Col. Irvin were conducted into the room. Mr. Quigley said that he wished to withdraw his name as a candidate in favor of Col. Irvin. He stated that he had been for Irvin from the start and that the Centre county Republicans favored Irvin's nomination. Mr. Quigley stated that the Democrats intended to nominate Hon. James Kerr, although the Democratic nomination naturally belonged to ex-Senator Heinle of Bellefonte. The Centre county Democrats, however, were doing all they possibly, could to secure the election of Orvis for judge and everything in Centre county must make way for the judgeship contest. The nomination of Col. Irvin was then made by acclamation on motion of Mr. Allison, seconded by Mr. Hartsock—both Centre county conferees.

Col. Irvin being called on said that he was very much obliged for the mark of confidence shown him and appreciated the kindness that had been exhibited by all his friends in the three counties of the district. It was particularly pleasant to have such unanimity. He said that his father had lived in Penns valley and in his boyhood days centered about Spring Mills, Centre county. He was much gratified at the endorsement of Clinton and Centre counties and also over the endorsement of his own county.

Brief addresses were also made by Lewis Hoover and J. E. Hedding. Both spoke in high praise of the Republican senatorial candidate and predicted his triumphant election:

The conference then adjourned with hearty good feeling.

The following are the names of the conferees:

Clearfield county—J. E. Hedding, Morrisdale, Capt. W. J. Leahy, Falls Creek; J. P. O'Laughlin, Clearfield.

Centre county—Samuel H. Wigton, Philipsburg, W. E. Hartsock, Benore; Hon. Wm. M. Allison, Spring Mills.

Clinton county—W. H. Rumberger, Renovo; Lewis Hoover and H. G. Shearer, Lock Haven.

A New Cemetery.

Mrs. R. J. Gibbs, of Milesburg, and daughter were in town today in relation to the laying out of Trcziyulny (pronounced Treeulny) cemetery located on a beautiful spot of ground on land owned by Mrs. Gibbs in Boggs township. This is in accordance with the will of Mrs. Lovina P. Trcziyulny, deceased. This cemetery overlooks Milesburg and the beautiful Bald Eagle Valley and will be laid out in a semi-circle and the lots numbered. It will be a union cemetery and the lots will be offered for sale. However there will be a place for soldiers in this cemetery where they can be buried free of charge, also a lot laid aside for the poor who have no friends or relatives to look after them.

A part of this cemetry is on the slope of a hill and a splendid location for the building of family vaults. For lots apply to Mrs R. J. Gibbs, Milesburg, Pa.

A Little Boy's Sad Fate.

A distressing accident occurred Thursday morning near Renovo, when a little boy of the tender age of 4 years was so badly burned that he died later from the effects of his injuries. The little victim was Robert Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walizer, who reside on the north side of Renovo. At about 11:30 o'clock that morning the boy went to what is known as the "dump" back of the car shops, where he sat down alongside of a fire, says the News. He played around for about twenty minutes when a gale of wind sent the flames against his shirt waist, igniting it. With his clothing ablaze he started home, but was met by Frank Lundfelt and Nora Johnson, who tore them from his body, but it was too late. He had already been severely burned, and he died at 6 o'clock that evening. Dr. C. L. Fullmer attended to the boy's injuries and despite his best efforts it was impossible to save his life.

The boy's father, Robert Walizer, formerly lived at Mackeyville, and he with his wife, are nearly distracted over their boy's cruel and untimely end. Funeral services were conducted at the house Saturday afternoon.

DEATH OF JOSEPH S. SMITH.

A Well Known Citizen and Justice-of-the-Peace at Snow Shoe.

Joseph S. Smith, a well known citizen and Justice-of-the-Peace at Snow Shoe, died Wednesday morning at 6:30 o'clock as a result of a paralytic stroke which he suffered on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The deceased was 57 years of age and was born at Howard, Centre county. All his life he followed the trade of a shoemaker. He was a member of Co. F, f 200th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers during the civil war and was wounded at Fort Stetman, near Petersburg. He was a member of the Methodist church at Snow Shoe.

Surviving him are his wife, one son Charles and the following daughters, Mrs. Martin Reese, Mrs. Harry Fravel, of Snow Shoe and Lydia of Duncannon. He also leaves one brother Alfred of Milesburg.

He was an Odd Fellow, an active Republican and had been Justice-of-the-Peace at Snow Shoe for several years.

The funeral will take place Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. H. J. Schuchart will officiate. Services at the house. Interment at Roland.

Fakers and Gambling Devices.

These pernicious elements so inimical to the pleasure of many will be conspicuous by their absence at the great Fair. The management is determined to make the Fair attractive, both mentally and morally, and to that end it will exert every effort to keep all gambling devices and fakers off the ground.

CENTRE COUNTY'S BIG FAIR

Will Be In Full Blast Next Week.

MANY ATTRACTIONS

Fine Racing on The Best Half Mile Track in The State—Lots of Amusements—Many fine Exhibits.

DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND

Gradually the people of Centre County are beginning to realize that the Centre County Fair is an institution worthy their attention and interest. It has been an herculean task to re-awaken the enthusiasm that made the old fairs in this place the famous events they were back in the seventies and early eighties, but it is being done, nevertheless. The generosity of the management in providing liberal purses for racing, cash premiums for exhibits and expensive amusements for the entertainment of the spectators in face of the fact that the Fair has been an unprofitable venture from the very start, is carrying conviction to everyone that it is not a gigantic money making scheme, but a great, public spirited enterprise from which the public really gets the greatest return.

Each year the character and number of the exhibits has grown until it may be expected to find a show of wonderful interest when the gates are thrown open next Tuesday. The Fair is truly an useful institution, for it not only provides a clean and delightful means of amusement for several days each fall, but gives the farmer, the artisan, the house wife, in fact everybody an opportunity of comparing the work of others with their own accomplishments. Many people found the fair last year a positive help, in more ways than one. Some of them got valuable hints in needle work, baking, making preserves and jellies; others were able to sell articles that they could find no previous market for and in instances we have in mind exhibitors not only received these benefits, but were awarded premiums enough to compensate them handsomely for their trouble.

In view of all these facts there should be a general unity of endeavor in all parts of the county to make the Fair a great, useful and permanent enterprise. It can be done with the co-operation of everyone. It must be understood, also, that the managers intend to put every cent they receive from admission right back into the enterprise to make it even greater next year. Surely such a laudable purpose should be met with a liberal patronage on the part of the public.

To add special interest to the racing numbers it might be well to announce that horses owned by Mr. M. Fauble, Mr. M. B. Garman and Mr. W. V. Larimer, of Bellefonte, will start in their respective classes. Mr. Bolopue and Mr. Joseph Diehl, of Howard, will also have entries and Mr. Irvin Gray will be there with his popular "Sally Derby," the beautiful pacing mare. These local horses will add much to the interest of the racing with the long list of foreign racers that will be on the track at the great Fair.

SENATORIAL CONFERENCE.

Hon. James Kerr, of Clearfield, to Make the Run Against Col. E. A. Irvin.

The conferees of the Democratic party for the Thirty-fourth Senatorial district met in the parlors of the Brockerhoff House at this place at ten o'clock Saturday and the formality of nominating Hon. James Kerr, of Clearfield, was gone through with. Our own Wm. C. Heinle is one of the most popular Democrats in this part of the state and could have had the nomination if he had desired to make a stand for it, but he stepped aside for James Kerr or rather the latter's "barrel" a thing which our democratic brethren sadly need in this campaign.

The meeting was a very harmonious one in every respect as Senator Heinle would not allow the use of his name but spoke in favor of Mr. Kerr.

J. Calvin Meyer, Esq., of Bellefonte, was chairman of the conference. After Mr. Heinle had refused the use of his name G. W. A. McDonald, of Lock Haven, placed in nomination Hon. James Kerr. This was seconded by James Schofield, of Bellefonte. There being no other nominations the secretary was instructed to cast the ballot for Mr. Kerr which he did.

Hon. James Kerr is now on the high seas bound for Europe but it is understood he agreed before leaving this country to accept the nomination.

Speeches were by Capt. John C. Barclay, John F. Short, G. W. A. McDonald, Col. J. L. Spangler, W. C. Heinle, Capt. H. S. Taylor, Hon. James Schofield, Col. John A. Woodward and D. F. Fortney.

The conferees were as follows:

Clearfield—Dr. H. W. Buckingham, Dennis Dempsey, Dr. G. B. Hennigh, all of Clearfield.

Clinton—George W. McDonald, of Lock Haven, W. E. Shaffer and D. M. May, of Renova.

Centre—J. C. Meyer, M. I. Gardner, James Schofield, all of Bellefonte.

DEATH OF MRS. EMELINE BECK.

Died While On a Visit to Her Daughter at Pittsburg.

A very sad death indeed, was that of Mrs. Emeline Beck, of Centre Line, which occurred in Pittsburg on Sunday morning to which place she had gone to nurse her daughter who was ill with typhoid fever. The daughter recovered but the mother contracted the same disease and passed away at the above stated time.

The deceased whose maiden name was Musser was born near Gatesburg 62 years ago. Forty-one years ago, she was married to Isaiah Beck, of Centre Line, who survives her with six children. She was a member of the Lutheran church and a lovely christian lady who will be sadly missed by her family, church and friends.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Attar, the Lutheran pastor at Warriorsmark officiating. Interment in the Centre Line cemetery.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Chas. Taylor Formerly of this Place the Victim.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning Charles Taylor, the plumber in charge of the work at the Pennsylvania Reformatory at Huntingdon was superintending the laying of pipe in a field on the Reformatory grounds. While instructing a prisoner whose name is given as John Timmering, of Erie, and while in the act of leaning down over the trench, the prisoner drew a billy and struck Mr. Taylor four blows on the head. The victim of the assault was not knocked insensible and was able to draw his revolver and fired on the assailant, shooting him through his left thigh, disabling him and rendering his capture easy. Mr. Taylor's condition is serious as it is feared his skull is fractured by the murderous blows.

Charles Taylor was formerly 1st Lieutenant of Company B of this place.

LATER.—A telephone message from Huntingdon states that Charlie Taylor's injuries are not of a serious character and that he will soon recover.

ley avenue. As the distance between the two places could not be compassed in that time, Mr. Jeffrey's alibi could be regarded as established.

When we were all rising, glad of an adjournment which restored free movement and an open interchange of speech, a sudden check in the general rush called our attention back to Mr. Jeffrey. He was standing facing Miss Tuttle, who had fainted away, sitting upright in her chair.

CHAPTER XV.

MR. JEFFREY'S examination and its triumphant conclusion created a great furore in town. What might be expected next? Something equally bold and reprehensible, of course, but what? It was a question which at the next sitting completely filled the inquest room.

To my great surprise Mr. Jeffrey was recalled to the stand.

Miss Tuttle sat in a less conspicuous position than on the previous day, and Mr. Moore, her uncle, was not there at all.

The testimony called for revived an old point which seemingly had not been settled to the coroner's satisfaction.

Had Mr. Jeffrey placed the small stand holding the candelabrum on the spot where it had been found? No. Had he carried into the house at the time of his acknowledged visit the candles which had been afterward discovered there? No. He had had time to think since his hesitating and unsatisfactory replies of the day before, and he was now in a position to say that, while he distinctly remembered buying candles on his way to the Moore house, he had not found them in his pocket on getting there and had been obliged to make use of the matches he always carried on his person in order to find his way to the upstairs room where he felt positive he would find a candle.

This gave the coroner an opportunity to ask:

"And why did you expect to find a candle there?"

The answer astonished me and, I have no doubt, many others:

"It was the room in which my wife had dressed for the ceremony. It had not been disturbed since that time. My wife had little ways of her own. One was to complete her toilet by using a curling iron on a little lock she wore over her temple. When at home, she heated this curling iron in the gas jet; but, there being no gas in the Moore house, I naturally concluded that she had made use of a candle, as the curl had been noticeable under her veil."

He had accounted for one candle in the house. Could he account for the one found in the tumbler or for the one lying crushed and battered on the closet floor?

He could not.

And now we all observed a change of direction in the inquiry. Witnesses were summoned to corroborate Mr. Jeffrey's statements—statements which it seemed to be the coroner's present wish to establish. First came the grocer who had sold Mr. Jeffrey the candles. He acknowledged, much to Jinny's discomfort, that an hour after Mr. Jeffrey had left the store he had found on the counter the package which that gentleman had forgotten to take. Poor Jinny had not stayed long enough to hear his story out. The grocer finished his testimony by saying that immediately upon his discovery he had sent the candles to Mr. Jeffrey's house.

This the coroner caused to be emphasized to such an extent that we were all convinced of its importance. But as yet his purpose was not evident save to those who were more in his confidence than myself.

The other witnesses were men from Rancher's, who had acted as waiters at the time of the marriage. One of them testified that immediately on Miss Moore's arrival he had been sent for a candle and a box of matches. The other, that he had carried up to her room a large candelabrum from the drawing room mantel. A pair of curling tongs taken from the dressing table of this room was next produced, together with other articles of toilet use which had been allowed to remain there uncared for, though they were of solid silver and of beautiful design.

The next witness was a member of Mr. Jeffrey's own household. Chloe was her name, and her good black face worked dolefully as she admitted that the package of candles which the grocer boy had left on the kitchen table with the rest of the groceries on the morning of that dreadful day when "missus" killed herself was not to be found when she came to put the things away. She had looked and looked for it, but it was not there.

Further inquiry brought out the fact that but one other member of the household was in the kitchen when these groceries were delivered and that this person gave a great start when the boy shouted out, "The candles there were bought by Mr. Jeffrey!" and hurried over to the table and handled the packages, although Chloe did not see her carry any of them away.

"And who was this person?"

"Miss Tuttle."

When the murmur which had hailed this startling turn in the inquiry had subsided the coroner drew a deep breath and, with an uneasy glance at the jury, who, to a man, seemed to wish themselves well out of this job, he dismissed the cook and summoned a fresh witness.

Her name made the people stare.

"Miss Nixon."

Miss Nixon! That was a name well known in Washington; almost as well known as that of Uncle David or even of Mr. Tallman. What could this quaint and characteristic little body have to do with this case of doubtful suicide? A word will explain. She was the person who on the day before had made that loud exclamation when the box containing the ribbon and the pistol had been disclosed to the jury.

As her fussy little figure came forward some nudged and some laughed, possibly because her bonnet was not of this year's style, possibly because her manner was peculiar and as full of oddities as her attire. But they did not laugh long, for the little lady's look was appealing, if not distressed. The fact that she was generally known to possess one of the largest bank accounts in the District made any marked show of disrespect toward her a matter of poor judgment, if not of questionable taste.

The box in the coroner's hand prepared us for what was before us. As he opened it and disclosed again the dainty white bow which, as I have before said, was of rather a fantastic make, the whole roomful of eager spectators craned forward and were startled enough when he asked:

"Did you ever see a bow like this before?"

Her answer came in the faintest of tones.

"Yes; I have one like it, very like it, so like it that yesterday I could not suppress an exclamation on seeing this one."

"Where did you get the one you have? Who fashioned it, I mean, or tied it for you, if that is what I ought to say?"

"It was tied for me by—Miss Tuttle. She is a friend of mine, or was, and a very good one, and one day while watching me struggling with a piece of ribbon which I wanted made into a bow she took it from my hand and tied a knot for which I was very much obliged to her. It was very pretty."

"And like this?"

"Almost exactly, sir."

"Have you that knot with you?"

She had.

"Will you show it to the jury?"

Heaving a sigh which she had much better have suppressed, she opened a little bag she carried at her side and took out a pink satin bow. It had been tied by a deft hand, and more than one pair of eyes fell significantly at sight of it.

Amid a silence which was intense two or three other witnesses were called to prove that Miss Tuttle's skill in bow tying was exceptional and was often made use of not only by members of her household, but, as in Miss Nixon's case, by outsiders, the special style shown in the one under consideration being the favorite.

During all this I kept my eyes on Mr. Jeffrey. When finally several persons of both sexes were brought forward to prove that his attentions to Miss Tuttle had once been sufficiently marked for an announcement of their engagement to be daily looked for, he let his head fall forward on his breast as if the creeping horror which had seized him was too much for his brain if not for his heart. The final blow was struck when the man whom I had myself seen in Alexandria testified to the contretemps which had occurred in Atlantic City, an additional point being given to it by the repetition of some old conversation, raked up for the purpose, by which an effort was made to prove that Miss Tuttle found it hard to forgive injuries even from those nearest and dearest to her. This subject might have been prolonged, but some of the jury objected, and the time being now ripe for the great event of the day the name of the lady herself was called.

After so significant a preamble the mere utterance of Miss Tuttle's name had almost the force of an accusation, but the dignity with which she rose calmed all minds and subdued every expression of feeling. She faltered only when by chance she glanced at the shrinking figure of Francis Jeffrey.

Her name, which she uttered without emphasis and yet in a way to arouse attention, sank into all hearts with more or less disturbance.

"Alice Cora Tuttle!" How in days gone by, and not so long gone by either, those three words had aroused the enthusiasm of many a gallant man and inspired the toast at many a gallant feast! They had their charm yet if the heightened color observable on many a cheek there was a true index to the quickening heart below.

"How are you connected with the deceased Mrs. Jeffrey?"

"I am the child of her mother by a former husband. We were half sisters."

No bitterness in this statement, only an infinite sadness. The coroner continued to question her. He asked for an account of her childhood and forced her to lay bare the nature of her relations with her sister. But little was gained by this, for their relations seemed to have been of a sympathetic character up to the time of Veronica's return from school, when they changed somewhat, but how or why Miss Tuttle was naturally averse to saying. Indeed she almost refused to do so, and the coroner, feeling his point gained more by this refusal than by any admission she might have made, did not press this subject, but passed on to what interested us more—the various unexplained actions on her part which pointed toward crime.

His first inquiry was in reference to the conversation held between her and Mr. Jeffrey at the time he visited her room. We had listened to his account of it, and now we wished to hear hers. But the cue which had been given her by this very account had been invaluable to her, and her testimony naturally coincided with his. We found ourselves not an inch advanced. They had talked of her sister's follies, and she had advised patience, and that was all she could say on the subject—all she would say, as we presently saw.

The coroner introduced a fresh topic.

"What can you tell us about the interview you had with your sister prior to her going out on the night of her death?"

"Very little except that it differed entirely from what is generally supposed. She did not come to my room for conversation, but simply to tell me that she had an engagement. She was in an excited mood, but said nothing to alarm me. She even laughed when she left me, perhaps to put me off my guard, perhaps because she was no longer responsible."

"Did she know that Mr. Jeffrey had visited you earlier in the day? Did she make any allusion to it, I mean?"

"None at all. She shrugged her shoulders when I asked if she was well and anticipated all further questions by running from the room. She was always capricious in her ways and never more so than at that moment. Would to God that it had been different! Would to God that she had shown herself to be a suffering woman! Then I might have reached her heart and this tragedy would have been averted."

The coroner favored the witness with a look of respect, perhaps because his next question must necessarily be cruel.

"Is that all you have to say concerning this important visit, the last you held with your sister before her death?"

"No, sir; there is something else—something which I should like to relate to this jury. When she came into my room she held in her hand a white ribbon—that is, she held the two ends of a long satin ribbon which seemed to come from her pocket. Handing those two ends to me, she asked me to tie them about her wrist. 'A knot under and a bow on top,' she said, 'so that it cannot slip off.' As this was something I had often been called on to do for her, I showed no hesitation in complying with her request. Indeed I felt none. I thought it was her fan or her bouquet she held concealed in the folds of her dress, but it proved to be—gentlemen, you know what. I pray that you will not oblige me to mention it."

It was such a stroke as no lawyer would have advised her to make. I heard afterward that she had refused the offices of a dozen lawyers who had proffered her their services. But, uttered as it was with a noble air and a certain dignified serenity, it had a great effect upon those about her and turned in a moment the wavering tide of favor in her direction.

The coroner, who doubtless was perfectly acquainted with the explanation with which she had provided herself, but who perhaps did not look for it to antedate his attack, bowed in quiet acknowledgment of her request and then immediately proceeded to ignore it.

"I should be glad to spare you," he said, "but I do not find it possible. You knew that Mr. Jeffrey had a pistol?"

"I did."

"That it was kept in their apartment?"

"Yes."

"In the upper drawer of a certain bureau?"

"Yes."

"Now, Miss Tuttle, will you tell us why you went to that drawer—if you did go to that drawer—immediately after Mrs. Jeffrey left the house?"

She had probably felt this question coming, not only since the coroner began to speak, but ever since the evidence elicited from Loretta proved that her visit to this drawer had been secretly observed. Yet she had no answer ready.

"I did not go for the pistol," she finally declared. But she did not say what she had gone for and the coroner did not press her.

"You had another errand in that room?"

She let her head droop just a trifle.

"Alas!" she murmured.

"You went to the bookshelves and took out a book with a peculiar cover, a cover which Mr. Jeffrey has already recognized as that of the book in which he found a certain note."

"You have said it," she faltered.

"Did you take such a book out?"

"I did."

"For what purpose, Miss Tuttle?"

She had meant to answer quickly, but some consideration made her hesitate and the words were long in coming. When she did speak it was to say:

"My sister asked another favor of me after I had tied the ribbon. Passing in her passage to the door, she informed me in a tone quite in keeping with her whole manner, that she had left a note for her husband in the book they were reading together. Her reason for doing this, she said, was the very natural one of wishing him to come upon it by chance, but as she had placed it in the front of the book, instead of in the back where they were reading, she was afraid that he would fail to find it. Would I be so good as to take it out for her and insert it again somewhere near the end? She was in a hurry or she would return and do it herself. As she and Mr. Jeffrey had parted in anger, I hailed with joy this evidence of her desire for a reconciliation, and it was in obedience to her request, the singularity of which did not strike me as forcibly then as now, that I went to the shelves in her room and took down the book."

Miss Nixon

"And did you find the note where she said?"

"Yes, and put it in toward the end of the story."

"Nothing more? Did you read the note?"

"It was folded," was Miss Tuttle's quiet answer.

"You did not remain before these bookshelves long?" observed the coroner.

"You have a witness who knows more about that than I do," she suggested, and, doubtless aware of the temerity of this reply, waited with unmoved countenance, but with a visibly bounding breast, for what would doubtless prove a fresh attack.

It was a violent one and of a character she was least fitted to meet. Taking up the box I have so often mentioned, the coroner drew away the ribbon lying on top and disclosed the pistol. In a moment her hands were over her ears.

"Why do you do that?" he asked. "Did you think I was going to discharge it?"

She smiled pitifully as she let her hands fall again.

"I have a dread of firearms," she explained. "I always have had. Now they are simply terrible to me, and this one"—

"I understand," said the coroner, with a slight glance in the direction of Durbin. They had evidently planned this test together on the strength of an idea suggested to Durbin by her for-

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissue. They are commonly due to defective digestion but sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor and general debility.

How are they expelled? By

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best of all medicines for all humors.

THE GINGER JAR.

Very Often Anyway.

The light that lies in woman's eyes
Is something that we highly prize;

And gladly skirmish for a chance
To capture one soft, melting glance;

Although we cannot but surmise
That that light usually lies.

Seeing Things.

Oh. See the Young Lady!

Is she not beautiful? How fluffy her hair is! How small her waist! How dainty and petite her tootsie-wootsies! How lovely her complexion!

Oh, see how sweetly she gazes upon her escort! How fascinating she appears! She loves him with her whole heart, does she not?

Perhaps she does, my boy; but just at present she is thinging more about the luncheon he is going to buy for her and the matinee he is going to take her to

Has he asked her to attend those functions with him?

Not yet, my son.

Then how does she know that he will?

I can tell by the way she is looking at him that she knows. Presently it will dawn upon him, too.

She is a lovely girl. He will be glad to entertain her, will he not?

Yes, indeed; very glad, until tomorrow morning, when he is walking four miles to his office and wondering how he is going to secure a plate of bean soup for his lunch.

Refreshments First.

Binks—Did you find the Southern people hospitable?

Jinks—Well, rather. They didn't even ask me my name until I had forgotten what it was.

Dad's Idea.

Mrs. Jones (reading letter from the son and heir)—Jonas says all the boys have nicknames at college. I wonder what they'll call him.

Farmer Jones (who has just finished writing a check)—If they have any regard for the truth they'll call him expensive.

The Coleville Philosopher.

I stayed at home this summer to save money, but I can't find where it is.

I didn't stay up very late last night worrying over how Vermont was going to go.

Sympathetic strikers are getting less and less sympathy.

Tom Watson seems to me to be against everybody and not in favor of anybody.

What goes up must come down, except the Snow Shoe ball team.

High Enough.

"Don't you think the stage should be elevated, Mr. Bawld?" asked the earnest young woman.

"Can't say that I do, Miss Primme," replied the front row patron. "If it was any higher it would give a man a crick in the neck to see everything."

The Blame.

Of cigarettes he smoked two score
Before the day was done.
Of highballs he drank ten or more
And thought that it was fun.
Next day when pen or pencil swerves
He'll claim that coffee racks the nerves.

The World's Fair.

Lots of men are married yet because they can't afford to pay alimony.

Frailty's name is woman only when she wants it to be.

Even a poet should not wear long hair on his coatsleeve unless it is the same color of his wife's.

It is hard for a girl to feel a keen interest in the beef strike so long as she knows the soda fountains are running an open shop.

The Proper Place.

"I see that bands are forbidden to play on many of the large bridges, on account of the vibration," remarked the man who likes to know things.

"Do you suppose," suggested the cheerful faultfinder, "that it would be possible to lure a few bands on to a large bridge and keep them there the next time there is a parade in town?"

Cured Hemorrhages o the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind., "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. The Farm as a Field for Usefulness.

The ambitious youth naturally looks beyond his home community and especially beyond the farm when he thinks of a useful career. The no less ambitious parent, if his children show aptness for learning, does not want them to bury their talents on the farm. Too long has the farmer himself regarded his occupation as inferior to that of many others and it is not strange that others have taken him at his own estimate of himself.

To feed the world is neither a small nor an ignoble task. This the farmer must do but it is by no means all that devolves upon him. As a citizen he has duties as exacting as those of any other class and perhaps more far reaching in results. If the great question of self government is left to the cities and centres of population there is scarcely any question as to the ultimate result. Even now corruption and maladministration seem to have the upper hand in the congested centres. What will the future show? If this country is to enjoy continued progress for generations to come the people of the rural districts must make themselves felt. They must be the final arbiters in the conflict between the employer and the employed. If they fail to measure up to their responsibility neither history nor philosophy warrant a hopeful view of the future. The youth who chooses the farm and seeks to fully fit himself for the work may thus become a leader in promoting those healthful agencies that will hold in check, if they do not stamp out, the evils that threaten. Should the same youth go to town and himself steer clear of evil, he will have to be possessed of more than ordinary ability and pluck if he gets his head above the crowd. Most likely he will lose his individuality, become a mere cog in the machine to be cast aside and replaced in time by another.

Would you encourage the boy to stay on the farm and to make a man of himself organize a grange in your neighborhood, attend the meetings and make them in an educational and social way all that they can be made. In doing this you will be doing missionary work, the good results of which time alone will tell.

SOME FOOLISH PEOPLE.

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it will wear them away. Spotting Them.

Lock Haven, Pa., Sept 22.—Every available unmarried man in this county has been spotted by a secret society of young women known as the Clinton County Leap Year Club, the existence of which has just come to light. Branches of the organization are in Lock Haven, Mill Hall, Flemington and other towns in the county.

Typewritten lists of every eligible single man in the county, with a brief but comprehensive statement of his good and bad characteristics as a possible partner for life, have been prepared for all members.

Each man is listed and numbered thus: No 1. easy mark, not very desirable; No 2. good looking, but knows it; No 3. member of six lodges, go slow; No 4. homely, but affectionate; No 5. owns good farm, little odd; No 6. nice boy, worth raising; No 7. needs wife with strong will; No 8. too fond of other girls; No 9. will inherit bank stock; No 10. perfectly willing; No 11. hard worker and stingy; No 12. got the stuff, but hard to land; No 13. spoken for; No 14. fat and jolly; No 15. rich but dyspeptic; No 16. young, handsome and generous; No 17. all right, go for him, and so on.

If the ministers do not get busy in this section before snow flies it will not be the fault of the marriageable girls in Clinton county.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

The Ladies' Department at the Fair.

The ladies in charge of the general exhibition building at the Fair have been meeting with more than expected success in their efforts to arouse interest in all parts of the county. They are in constant communication with representative women in every township, to the end that the Women's and Childrens Department will be far more elaborate than they were last year, and this is saying much, for this particular exhibit of the fair attracted unusual interest for its completeness and variety.

Doctors Could not Help Her.

"I had kidney trouble for years," writes Mrs. Raymond Conner of Shelton, Wash., "and the doctors could not help me. I tried Foley's Kidney Cure, and the very first dose gave me relief and I am now cured. I cannot say too much for Foley's Kidney Cure." For sale by C. M. Parrish.

MUST HAVE FIRE ESCAPES.

State Factory Inspector Delaney Preparing to Enforce the Law to the Letter.

Chief Factory Inspector John C. Delaney proposes to inaugurate a vigorous campaign to secure the enforcement of the laws relating to fire escapes, and in a few days will confer in Philadelphia with the 13 factory inspectors on the subject. Arrangements have been perfected whereby the factory inspectors will work in conjunction with the inspector of the bureau of building inspectors in the larger cities. Particular attention will be paid to the law which requires fire escapes to be erected on the buildings over two stories in height, where people are employed, and on tenement houses, which are occupied by more than two families. All cases of violation will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Amusements at the Fair.

The amusement features at the great Centre County Fair on October 4, 5, 6, & 7, will be of high class, moral, refined, and entertaining. At great expense the management has secured the following special feature attractions that will be exhibited each day of the fair without an extra cent of charge to the thousands of spectators.

"Chicot," the monkey that actually loops the loop on a bicycle.

Prof. Drako's troupe of performing sheep and dogs.

The Glenn Bros., the wonderful trick house acrobats.

Caprice R. Lewis, the queen of the high trapeze.

The Barlous, the ludicious clown acrobats in their amazing aerial feat on the break-a-way ladders.

All of these attractions have been great circus features and constitute an entertainment equal in interest to many you have paid double the price to see under canvass. And they will all be free at the Great Centre County Fair this year.

Feet Swollen to Immense Size.

"I had kidney trouble so bad that I could not work," says J. J. Cox of Valley View, Ky., "my feet were swollen to immense size and I was confined to my bed and physicians were unable to give me any relief. My doctor finally prescribed Foley's Kidney Cure which made a well man of me." For sale by C. M. Parrish.

A Great Offer.

The New York World will be sent by mail to any address during the Presidential campaign, every week day for two months, for fifty cents. The regular price of the World for two months is $1.00, and this Special Half-Rate Campaign Offer is of especial interest to every reader desiring the best and most accurate news of the campaign.

This offer is limited to Oct. 7th.

The result of the election will be foreshadowed in The World week in advance, exactly as Cleveland's election was foretold, and as McKinley's triumphs were, The World giving the electoral vote by States with absolute correctness ten weeks before McKinley's election day.

The World will not only strive to be right, but it will be bright and large, national in its news and views. Every one who is interested in this vital Presidential contest will need it every day. No Democrat or Republican should be happy without it.

As a special inducement to clubs and campaign workers, ten subscriptions for two months each will be sent for $4.00.

Address World Campaign Club, Room 49, World Building, New York.

Racing at the Fair.

Experts in such matters have pronounced the track of the Centre County Fair grounds as the best half-mile course in Central Pennsylvania. A good track, however, would afford little amusement without good horses. For the great Centre County Fair next month fifty entries have already been made and horsemen are looking forward to one of the greatest race meets ever held in this county.

Children

Have "eyes bigger than their stomachs," according to an old saying. They overeat themselves, and are tempted by all sorts of injurious and indigestible edibles. As a consequence the foundation of serious stomach trouble is often laid in childhood.

For children with "weak" digestion or whose stomachs are diseased, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery may be confidently recommended. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the nourishment contained in food is perfectly assimilated and the puny child is built up by food into a condition of robust health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterview, Middlesex Co., Va., writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad I found a doctor who could cure my child. Whenever she feels badly I give her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she is soon all right. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pellets,' and one bottle of of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and she is well. We thank God for your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MEASURE OF MERIT

Bellefonte Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence.

Convincing evidence in Bellefonte.

Is not the testimony of strangers,

But the endorsement of Bellefonte people.

That's the kind of proof given here—

The statement of a Bellefonte citizen.

Mrs. Catherine Gross, of Valentine St., says: "I cannot only recommend Doan's Kidney Pills from my experience but other members of our family have also tried them with beneficial results. I used them for backache and kidney ailments from which I had suffered for a long while.

There was a dull, heavy, continuous pain through my loins accompained with headachees and I could find no relief. I tried many remedies before I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and then sent to the Bush Block Drug Store and got a box. I used a few doses and found relief. I improved so rapidly that I continued taking them until my trouble left me entirely and I have had no return of it since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. cents. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the United States.

DON'T BE WOOZY!

NERO

was a most crafty Roman, but he made one mistake.

He committed suicide at the wrong end of his life,

He should have shuffled off at the beginning.

A great many business men today are committing business suicide at the wrong end of their lives!

They mean well at the start, but drift away from their good resolutions.

One means of a long and prosperous business life is to have good printing and stationery.

A business is judged by its printed matter.

THE REPUBLICAN

Job Printing Department is prepared to furnish the best.

Cost is a secondary consideration when you consider the quality—sufficient it is to say our prices are so reasonable that it would be a waste of shoe leather to look further.

It has a distinctiveness all its own—a something that distinguishes it from the common trash of the ordinary shop.

Again we say:

"Don't be Woozy."

Think it over and for your next order, remember the Republican Job Printing Department.

Town Clock Being Repaired.

The town clock in the Court House tower is undergoing a general overhauling and repairing This is the first time it has had a thorough job of this kind in years. The work is being done by Frank P. Blair and he states that it will take some time to finish it. For the benefit of the public he will have the clock strike every day at 9 and 12 according to railroad time.

The clock was put in the tower in 1858 and had never been cleaned since it had been put in. It was discovered to be in a pretty dilapidated state. The wood work was rotted and the main winding wheel had four spokes broken.

Special Rates and Trains.

Special excursion rates over all railroads. Special trains over the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad from Bellefonte to Coburn leaving Bellefonte at 7:00 o'clock p. m., Thursday and Friday, October 6th and 7th. Republican Editors Train Fire On the Demoralized Democracy.

POWERFUL FACTORS IN CONTEST

State Chairman Boies Penrose Expresses Appreciation of the Valuable Assistance of His Journalistic Allies.

"The newspapers will be a power in this fight; we want them to thoroughly enlighten the people as to the issues, and we need have no fear as to the results." Thus spoke Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee, at the outset of the present campaign. The editors of the Republican newspapers throughout the country have certainly been a great factor in this contest. The Republican editors and publishers in Pennsylvania especially have been co-operating actively with the party organization, and State Chairman Penrose has on more than one occasion expressed his appreciation of the assistance given him by Republican newspapers since the opening of the canvass.

Following are some timely comments on the issues of the campaign from the press of this State:

Fairbank's Letter.

While the letter of acceptance of Vice Presidential Candidate Charles W. Fairbanks is not so long and therefore not so exhaustive as that of President Roosevelt's it ably supplements that strong presentation of Republican principles.

Mr. Fairbank's letter states clearly what the Republican party has done in maintaining peace with all the world while at the same time advancing all the interests of the United States; in maintaining protection which guards and develops our industries, and at the same time increasing trade relations by means of treaties of reciprocity; in proceeding against trusts by enforcing laws which the late Democratic administration regarded as ineffective; in establishing the gold standard; in dealing broadly and fairly with the Filipinos, and in reclaiming lands of the west.

Mr. Fairbanks presents these issues so clearly and so forcibly that they cannot be met by the opposition.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A Party of Achievements.

Those who never do things run few chances of making mistakes, never lay themselves open to criticism for anything but their inactivity and their presumed inability to accomplish things. Unable to shine in the direction of achievement, these apply their efforts and whatever activity they can stir up to criticism of those who are really accomplishing something and to day dreams of how much better they might serve if they were given the chance. These are facts as applicable to political parties as to individuals. These conditions have brought about the understanding that the Republican party is the party of action; the Democratic one of carping criticism. It is a noteworthy fact that the American people prefer activity and achievement and the party in which these features are prominent is just naturally the most popular.—Doylestown Republican.

Deeds of Today Count Now.

The American electorate has gone past the time when a party is judged by tradition; the voters ask for results. The traditions of the old Democratic party are dear to the memory of all Democrats. The deeds of the Democratic party of recent years and the promises of the Democratic party of today do not appeal to the best judgment of thinking men.

President Roosevelt's letter of acceptance turns the searchlight of truth, reason and logic upon the instability of the Democracy's attitude today, and every voter ought to see his way clear to read his ballot and put his mark at the head of the Republican column.—Meadville Tribune.

Democrats Acknowledge Their Errors.

On every great issue, on every great national policy and doctrine, the Democratic party acknowledges that it has been wrong, and that the Republican party has been right. This acknowledgement is partly sincere and honest and party dishonest and a matter of expediency. The party is still a Free Trade party and a Free Silver party, but to win, it goes before the country with a reluctant concurrence in Republican policies.

Why then, voters of 1904, not cast your votes for the candidates of the Republican party, whose splendid achievements are acknowledged even by the Democrats.—Pottsville Miners Journal.

No New Issues Involved.

The questions at issue are the same now as they have been in the past; it is a question of protection or free trade; of perfecting the financial system or weakening it; of continuing the good work in the Philippines or "scuttling." There are numerous subsidiary issues, but these are the principal ones, and the people have spoken at the polls on all of them. There is no new or strange doctrine.—Franklin Repository.

A New Jersey Editor's Testimonial

M. T. Lynch, Editor of the Philipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it. For sale by C. M. Parrish.

Going to Be in the Swim.

The younger men of the Democratic party are leaving that party by the wholesale. These young men are tired of clinging to the dead past. They are joining the party of living issues and great policies for the future prosperity and greatness of the nation. They are going to be in the swim, for they believe that success will again perch upon the Republican banners on the 8th of November. — Huntingdon Globe.

Beetle Soldiers and Sailors.

There are beetles in England, of the family known to scientists as telephoridae, that are popularly called soldiers and sailors, the red species being called by the former name and the blue species by the latter. These beetles are among the most quarrelsome of insects and fight to the death on the least provocation. It has long been the custom among English boys to catch and set them fighting with each other. They are as ready for battle as gamecocks, and the victor will both kill and eat his antagonist.—St. Nicholas.

Lamp Chimneys.

To prevent lamp chimneys from cracking wrap each chimney loosely but entirely in a cloth, place them together in a kettle and cover with cold water. Bring the water to a boil, continue the heat ten or fifteen minutes and then cool off. By this tempering they are toughened against all ordinary lamp heat.

What does it profit a woman if she gain the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young women students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, very often neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that they become chronic invalids with all their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for such as these, marked by the feet of thousands. It is the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive organs, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for disease of the delicate organs of womanhood. A cure so certainly follows the use of these remedies that out of hundreds of thousands who have tried the treatment, ninety-eight in every hundred have been perfectly and permanently cured. Constipation, with its calamitous consequences, which is a common ailment of students, can be entirely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

— Roosevelt Licked

It is now evident that Roosevelt is going to be badly licked this campaign. We have received from The Coupon Press, Washington Heights, Chicago, a book of 95 stickers like a postage stamp only larger, each being a half tone portrait of the president with the title "Four more years for Teddy." They look very neat on a letter head or envelope and as the idea is rather novel they will, no doubt, be licked by thousands of Roosevelt's admirers. The publishers will send a sample book to parties sending ten cents and mention this paper. This is a special offer to our readers.

He Had a Daughter.

"You have a daughter, have you not, sir?" said a minister to an old gentleman with whom he had formed a casual acquaintance as a fellow passenger.

The old gentleman essayed to answer, but the question had strangely affected him.

"I beg your pardon," said the minister, "if I have thoughtlessly awakened in your mind recollections of a painful nature. The world is full of sorrow, sir, and perhaps my question recalls to your memory a fair, beautiful girl whose blossoming young life had withered in its bloom. Am I right, sir?"

"No, not exactly," replied the old gentleman sadly. "I have five unmarried darters, mister, an' the youngest of the lot is twenty-eight years old."

The Teacher's Fault.

Teacher—Why, Freddy, how did you get those black and blue welts on your arm?

Scholar—Them's your fault, teacher.

Teacher—My fault? What do you mean?

Scholar (sobbing reminiscently)—Why, you told me it was a poor rule that didn't work both ways. So when I went home I took pa's new two foot rule that doubles up on a hinge and bent it back till it worked both ways, and then pa said I'd broken the joints, and he went and got his razor strop.

Food Laws in France.

Parisians who suspect adulteration in the food or drink they buy take it to the municipal laboratory and have it analyzed free of cost. The city undertakes the prosecution, if need be, of the offender, who, if the case is proved, is liable not only to fine and imprisonment, but to the exposure in his shop window of a notice of "conviction of adulteration."

Blackheads.

Those who are troubled with blackheads should never squeeze them out; it only makes them grow worse. Bathe your face in warm water in which a little bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved, and, after drying it on a very soft towel, dab it gently with this lotion: Eight ounces of elder flower water and one dram liquor of acetate of lead. Avoid using soap for your face and take plenty of aperient medicine.

Some Chinese Baths.

A traveler in Mongolia writes: "There are some hot springs by the road about twenty miles north of Chingpeng. The place is named Tangshan. The arrangements for those anxious to benefit by their healing properties are very primitive. A row of twenty or thirty wooden boxes the size of an ordinary packing case are ranged beside the road. In these sit bathers of every age and both sexes, with their heads protruding. Attendants with buckets continuously refill the boxes from the springs. For less luxurious bathers there is accommodation in a pool which has been dug out close by. In this they squat, scooping up the water and pouring it over their heads with brass basins. It is curious to reflect that establishments like Homburg and Aix-les-Bains have had their origin in such beginnings."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
BRINGS THE
SUNSHINE OF HEALTH AND HAPPINESS TO SICK WOMEN.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Very often a married woman or young girl does not know who to turn to for advice in circumstances where she dislikes to talk with the family physician about delicate matters. At such times write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free consultation and advice, and the same will be held as sacredly confidential. It is foolish to consult women friends or persons without medical training.

All other compounds intended for women only are made with alcohol, or alcohol is a large component—this alcohol injures the nerves. The little red corpuscles of the blood are shrunken by alcohol. All such compounds, therefore, do harm.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the first exclusively woman's tonic on the market—it has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. THE GRANGERS BIG PICNIC

Held at Grange Park Centre Hall, Last Week

A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Was One of the Most Successful Picnics the Grangers Have Held in Many Years.

VERY FINE WEATHER PREVAILED.

[By Roger T. Bayard.]

Wednesday dawned bright and beautiful, just such a day that should attract 20,000 people to a picnic ground, and as the Democratic committee were just a little too late asking for Thursday the big day at the Park. They did everything in their power to stir up the crowd for Wednesday but the Republican committee were wide awake and had secured Thursday for their day and drew the crowd. The result was that only 800 people arrived at the park over the Pennsylvania railroad and it was bountifully estimated that 1200 drove here in buggies and carriages, making in all 2000 people, perhaps it could be stretched to 2,500. Five bands were in attendance the Coleville, Zion, State College, Penn Hall and Coburn. Every plan possible was worked, to get the crowd into the auditorium. Bands were sent in different sections of the Park to draw the people in, and when they assembled at the large auditorium about 200 mostly women and children went in to hear the speakers. Col. Spangler was chosen chairman of the meeting and in a flowery address he introduced John Fow, of Philadelphia, who dwelt on the Registration and Ballot Law, how methods of registration in Philadelphia of occupants of houses, hand lists to Registration assessors and some wards cast twice as many votes as there are people living in the ward. Of course that is all hot air and it went in one ear and out the other of the people in the auditorium He also mentioned an article on protection to American Industries from North American. Republicans say High Tariff protects industries and employs American labor. Affords American market for American product, that is correct, he then reads from the same paper an advertisement of John Wannamaker who advertises nearly a page af foreign manufactured articles. We failed to see the articles and had a copy of the same paper as did Mr. Fow. Of course he tried to convince these good farmers that these were hard times and that the farmer was not getting what was coming to him. And so he said to these people as "I was coming through this beautiful valley I said to myself this is truly God's country" of course it is we all know that and God is wonderfully prospering the farmers today, they are enjoying better times than they have for years. He tore up the administration, spoke of Roosevelt and the civil service policies, and taking it all in all it was a whole lot of hot air, and as one farmer remarked to another as he was coming out of the auditorium, "I am perfectly satisfied with our present administration and their talk is all bosh." The other said "I am of the same mind."

The next speaker was Senator Herbst, of Berks County, who tried to speak in Pennsylvania German, but as he could not be understood, he had to repeat what he did say in English. He came near not speaking at all, what he did say the people had no confidence in.

Next was the tall man, Jim Gleason who stands six feet, six inches in his stocking feet, so he said, we don't know whether the people wanted to know how tall he was or not, but that was the first thing he told them. He discussed the cause pursued by the Republican Party in the Philipines and in the Panama affairs. He like Fow, tore up the administration, but had very little effect upon his audience.

REPUBLICAN DAY.

Thursday was Republican Day at the Granger's Picnic, and it drew the largest crowd ever witnessed on these grounds. As early as seven o'clock in the morning trains crowded with people, carriages, buggies, Spring wagons, dray wagons, gigs; and hay wagons, were seen wending their way to these old familiar camp grounds. They kept coming in until over 12000 people had gathered together.

In the afternoon the meeting was called in the large Auditorium which seats 1000 people and that was packed to the doors. Philip Foster chairman of the Republican County committee introduced the Hon. A. L. Martin, of New Castle who presented some facts for their careful consideration. The Republican Party through its entire history has stood for American Industries, and employs American labor and affords American market for American Products. Of how in years past the enormous price was paid English manufacturers for our steel rails, how the price has been lowered by our American manufacturers and this he attributed to the Republican administration. How when the Democratic administration was in power, the farmers were receiving scanty prices for their ware, while now they are receiving the highest price possible. He spoke of the tin industry when in 1891 a market was not known in this country and the Democratic leaders said a manufacturing establishment of this kind would never be known in the United States. There is now in the city of New Castle one of the largest concerns of this kind in the world. Is it safe to follow false prophets of this kind?

Four years ago these Democratic brothers traveled all over this great country yelling Free Silver and 16 to 1 but now you never hear them say a word about it, they know they were wrong then in their principles and they know they are wrong now, but they must have some issue to fight for even though it be false.

They say, what are you going to do about the Trusts? I refer them to Theodore Roosevelts declarations when he opened the books of Congress and Legislature and in a fearless way explained these matters carefully to them.

He spoke of the present candidate for Judge on the Republican ticket in Centre County and said how in the dark days of '61 when the call to arms was made by our Martyred President Lincoln, he threw his fork in the ground and went to the front. He spoke of his judicial career, of the clean and honest dealing in justice with his fellow men, and said, a man of this kind is good enough for any man to vote for. And if Orvis his opponent should be elected, it would cost the county many thousands of dollars to bring other Judges to your county to try cases, Mr. Orvis would be connected with. It is best not to trade horses in the middle of the stream. After Mr. Martin had finished speaking Senator John H. Landis of Lancaster County was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

If there ever was a time when the farmers of the United States should thoroughly appreciate the material aid given the farming interests of the country by the Dingley Tariff it is now when their interests are being threatened by a rival people near their doors who are rapidly becoming their most formidable competitors.

The marvellous blessings which have been conferred upon the people of the United States have been showered upon all without any undue discrimination against those employed in any special industry or in any special section. Its benefits have been distributed far and wide among all classes and in all sections.

The great mass of our wage workers have been constantly employed at remunerative wages, thereby enabling them to provide their families not only with the necessaries of life but also with many of its luxuries. In fact, at no time since the Dingley Tariff has been in operation has there been any occasion for an industrious American wage-worker, anxious or willing to have employment, to be found in idleness, not earning his daily bread. Every tramp to day is a tramp from choice and not from necessity.

These fortunate conditions for American labor have materially increased its consuming power. Increased consumption is always accompanied by increased demands for farm products, and increased demands for farm products invariably add to the profits of the farm, thereby adding to the farmers prosperity.

The indirect benefits derived by our farmers from the Dingley Tariff in giving employment to their best customers in the mills, the shops, the factories, the mines, and on the railroads of our country are vast, beyond computation, but the direct benefits which have been conferred through the duties imposed by the agricultural schedule upon farm products, such as wheat, corn, oats, tobacco, hay, fruit, vegetables, eggs, poultry, etc., are simply incalculable. This, it will be safe to say, will be appreciated in the future more than it has been in the past.

SPOILED A DUEL.

During the course of a heated debate once in the house of representatives sharp words were exchanged between a congressman from New York and one from Mississippi. A challenge was delivered and accepted, and as both were courageous and determined a bloody meeting seemed imminent. Friends interposed, but in vain. Both men were resolute, and neither would yield to the suggestion of an amicable arrangement. As a last resort Senator Lamar was called in to save the situation. He realized that no ordinary methods would serve his purpose, and so resorted to strategy. The principals in the proposed duel are still living, so I will call the New Yorker Jones and the Mississippian Smith.

Senator Lamar called on the New Yorker, and after the usual civilities had been exchanged he said:

"Jones, I've come here to do you a friendly turn. I know that you and Smith are determined to fight and that nothing will stop you. I have not come as a mediator, but simply to mitigate, if possible, the horrors of a fatal end, so far as you are concerned. As to Smith, I have no fears. He is a dead shot and can take care of himself, but he is not an unfeeling man, and is inclined to respect any partiality you may have in favor of any particular part of your anatomy. Some men entertain a mortal dread of being disfigured after death, and if the choice were left them would prefer not to be wounded in the eye or mouth or cheek bone. Now, if there is any particular spot that you would like to have Smith's bullet enter he has commissioned me to say that your wishes will be respected."

This extraordinary proposition staggered the New Yorker. Even his undoubted courage did not stand so severe a test, and he paled visibly. After he recovered his composure he replied that he would confer with his second, and Mr. Lamar, after an impressive farewell, took his leave.

The tip was given to friends of the principals and new negotiations entered upon. The duel did not come off. Lamar's device had succeeded.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Try This New Game.

It is called "Tickle the Editor" and is as follows: Take a sheet of ordinary writing paper, fold it nicely, enclose a bank note sufficiently large enough to pay all arrears and one year in advance and hand it to the editor. Keep an eye on him and if a smile adorns his face the trick works fine. Now is the time to play the joke. It beats "flinch" and "pit" all hollow.

WEDDING AMONG THE GRANGERS.

Mr. Geo. Breon and Miss Grace Lee United in Marriage.

On Thursday just after the noon hour Miss Grace Lee, of Centre Hall became the wife of George Breon whose home is a few miles west of the town. The wedding ceremony was performed at the brides home by Rev. J. M. Rearick, of the Lutheran church and the only persons present were the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The bride is an accomplished young lady and is well fitted for a help mate through life. She is a daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Lee, well to do citizens of Centre Hall. Mr. Breon is just in the prime of young manhood. He is a fine looking, sturdy young man who is employed by his father on the large farm at "Rhoneymede."

Mr. and Mrs. Breon left on an overland wedding tour through Mifflin Co. This paper wishes this young married couple unbounded happiness and joy through life.

The Yearick Reunion.

On Thursday morning, September 15, 1904, there was seen a steady movement of vehicles towards what is known as the George or Yearick homestead in west Brush valley. This continued until between 150 and 175 people had assembled in the Rachau grove near the homestead. Those assembled were the decendents, children, grand children, and great grand children of Hans and William George as written in German, or John and William Yearick as written in English.

They had met for the purpose of holding the first annual reunion of the Yearick family.

They met in the forenoon in the Rachau grove when the hours were spent in greeting one another and renewing old friendships and forming new ones. A sumptuous dinner was then partaken of and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

After this was over with all assembled in the United Evangelical church located on the Yearick farm, the portion now owned by Frank Yearick, where a program, consisting of singing and speaking, was carried out.

After the singing of a hymn and prayer and the repetition of the creed by Rev. S. Smith a permanent organization was effected as follows:

Adam Yearick, of Hans George or John Yearick, was elected president; John Yearick, another son, vice-president; Hon. John H. Wetzel, secretary, and Henry Philips, treasurer.

Rev. Z. A. Yearick, of Shenandoah, a grandson of John Yearick, Sr., then reads a very interesting paper giving a full history of the George or Yearick family in this country, tracing them from the German fatherland down to the present living generation.

This we cannot give in full, but allow us to say that we have the name George instead of Yearick as their original name and find it on a tombstone in the Reformed and Lutheran cemetery at Madisonburg as late as 1845. Almost invariably when written in German it is "George," when in English it is Yearick.

Rev. F. Wetzel then made a brief address, after which a permanent committee was formed, composed of the officers and one representative from each branch of the Yearick family.

These exercises were closed with a hymn and prayer by Rev. H. C. Bixler, of the Lutheran church.

Thus ended a most enjoyable day for the relatives and friends of this large family. May this have been but the first of many more such gatherings.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Next week the great County fair.

—Mrs. James H. Potter gave a "Flinch" party Thursday evening at her home on West Linn street.

—Bellefonte and surrounding county was visited by a heavy frost Thursday morning the mercury was down to 29½.

—Mrs. R. Crittenden and Mrs. Burns Crider gave a six o'clock dinner on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Charlotte Crittenden.

—The Coleville band gave one of their splendid concerts in front of the Bush House Friday night to a large and delighted audience.

—Married—John J. Confer, of Rosecrans and Margaret E. Davis of Mackeyville, were married Thursday at Hublersburg, Centre county, by Rev. H. I. Grow.

—A Traveling man stopping at the Garman House lost a pocketbook Friday containing $20.00. It was returned to him and the finder received a reward of $5.00 —Miles Heaton, of Yarnell, son-in-law of James Sune, of Bellefonte, in the spring planted 4 bushel of potatoes which yielded him when ploughed out last week about 75 bushels.

—Mayor Laedlein, of Williamsport, was suddenly attacked with indigestion Sunday evening and suffered greatly for a time, but later was much relieved and is resting comfortably.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Lyon quietly celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary at "Hearts Ease," Tuesday evening with a dinner given to the two families and a few of their friends.

—A pheasant Monday morning killed itself out of season and right on one of the main thoroughfares of Tyrone. The gamey bird flew against a third-story window of the Kirk building on Pennsylvania avenue, breaking the large pane of glass in the upper sash and landing in a bedroom with a gashed neck which soon put it out of commission.—Tyrone Herald.

—Mrs. Sue S. Walter a former Centre Countian, now living in Hillsdale, Kansas, has renewed her subscription to the Bellefonte Republican and in writing to us says that "crops are not very good out here this year. Excessive rains continued until the end of June. We are located in the great oil and gas belt can see the gas lights every night used in drilling."

—W. Harrison Walker, of the law firm of Fortney & Walker, Bellefonte, was in town over night. He is the same jovial gentleman, and one of the brightest and most popular attornies at the Centre county bar, and can count his friends by the legion on this side. He is also burgess of that place, a position he has filled to the satisfaction of the people and without fear or favor. He was transacting business in this place during his stay.—Philipsburg Journal.

—Tis with pleasure we note the success of the Creamery Store. Yet this is not to be wondered at when you consider their location, their neat clean room and the prompt and careful service they give their patrons. The line they carry is of a perishable nature and requires much care and attention but in this the management is certainly not lacking. We feel it would be a pleasure to the housewife to call and see just how nicely they carry their line.

—This is a perfectly free country says an exchange. A Norristown judge has decided that a girl has a right to sit on her best young man's lap; a New York judge has given an opinion that a boy may enjoy the privilege of snoring in church, a York judge has affirmed that the father of a girl has a right to throw her young man out of doors if he hangs on later than 11 o'clock; it has just been judiciously determined that a man does not have to have his mother-in-law in the house.

—Fun will certainly reign supreme when J. C. Stewart's funny musical farce, "The Two Johns," appears at the opera house this Thursday evening Sept. 29th. This comedy has, for the last ten years, been presented continually in England and Europe, having been one of the most successful farces ever sent over by an American author. It returns to us this season polished up to date, hyperdermically treated with new jokes and songs. Judging from the cast the comedy should be fast and furious, and our advice is to stay at home if you don't care to laugh. The company includes the following laugh provokers, Edward Begley, Albert Rice, Herman Steinman, Roger and Belle Dolan, Harry Buckley, Cassie Clifford, Dora Hale, James K. Ryan, Rebecca Adams, Nan Hewins, Tomline Coote, and the famous Garden City Quartette.

—There was a slight snow fall in parts of New York state Wednesday.

—James Reed Jr., of this place, who was arrested on suspicion of stealing a robe from some parties was discharged Thursday as there was no evidence whatever to connect him with the crime.

—At 1:30 Thursday afternoon Rev. John A. Wood Jr., united in marriage Peter M. Strong and Miss Marian A. Lingle, both of Milroy, the ceremony took place at the Methodist parsonage.

—The Snow Shoe base ball team having defeated the Lock Haven team Saturday Sept. 17th, they now hold the championship of Clinton and Centre counties Any team wanting to play a game write J. A. Kelley, Snow Shoe.

—On Thursday afternoon a lady on her way to the picnic lost a pocketbook at the Bellefonte station that contained $49.39. Rex Barlett, the boy at Garman's store, found the pocketbook, hunted the owner up and returned it, the boy receiving as a reward for his honesty a five dollar bill.

—A fine new eating house has been erected on the Centre County Fair Grounds. It has been equipped with a good kitchen and during the fair next month a competent caterer will have charge and meals and refreshments will be served at all hours of the day at reasonable prices.

—The will of the late Senator Patton has been recorded at Clearfield and leaves the settlement of his estate which is conservatively stated to exceed a million, to the three executors: Mrs. Patton, the widow, H. J. Patton, a son, and W. H. Sandford, cashier of the First National bank, Patton, Pa.

—A telegram has been received here for John C. Solt, of Dexter, Minnesota, stating that his wife was lying seriously ill at that place. He was here a few days ago but his whereabouts at present are unknown. Anyone knowing his present address would do him a favor by informing him of the receipt of this telegram.

—Dr. W. S. Glenn, one of the most prominent citizens of State College, was united in marriage with Minnie Terwillinger, at her home in Owego, N. Y., on Tuesday, Sept. 6th. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn visited Niagara Falls for a wedding trip, arriving at their home in State College last Saturday. The Doctor's bride is a trained nurse, with a diploma from the Williamsport hospital.

—Rev. O. R. Miller, Field Secretary of the Reformed Bureau, whose headquarters are at Washington, D. C., of which Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Craft is superintendent and whose chief object is to secure the passage of moral measures by Congress, and to defeat bad legislation there, will present this cause in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning, Oct. 2nd. The Rev. Miller is a live man, an interesting speaker and should be greeted by a large audience.

—Very early Wednesday morning burglars entered the store of the Munson Trading company, at Munson, where the Munson postoffice is located, and broke open the safe and cash register, taking $31.46 in postage stamps belonging to the government and about $15 in cash belonging to the Munson Trading Co. An entrance to the building was secured by means of tools taken from the N. Y. Central Railroad company's tool house and which were left lying in the store. Some tobacco and pen knives were taken W. E. Peterson, manager of the store, is the postmaster. On the night of August 6th last burglars entered his home and stole something over two hundred dollars in money, chiefly post office funds.

—Nearly every organization of volunteer firemen in the state of Pennsylvania, as well from Western New York and Eastern Ohio, will be represented at the silver anniversary convention of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association, to be held at Erie, October 4 7. One-fare rates from all points in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and within a radius of 150 miles in New York and Ohio. Arrangements have been made for housing and entertaining 20,000 visitors. Among features of entertainment to be provided will be excursions to Niagara Falls, a few hours' ride, by Lake Shore R. R., leaving Erie at 8 a. m. Tuesday and Saturday, October 4th and 8th, good returning for five days. The exhibit of fire apparatus and appliances will be the largest ever displayed. Write R. E. Ford, Erie, Pa., for circular of detailed information.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Gross Mingle, of Bellefonte, had an exciting experience Sunday while crossing Nittany Mountain. When half way up the mountain an automobile approached them from behind and caused the horse they were driving to become greatly excited. Mrs. Mingle, with her little son in her arms alighted from the buggy, ran back to meet the auto and pleaded with them to stop immediately, which they did The horse in the meantime was driven to a telephone pole and by the aid of several men who happened by was prevented from running away. The brute became perfectly crazed from fear, repeatedly rearing and striking the pole while standing perfectly erect. But for the protection of the telephone pole the animal could not have been prevented from getting away, as it was the men were in great danger of life and limb while endeavoring to pacify the frenzied animal.

—Mrs. Patsey Stewart gave a "Flinch" party Thursday evening at her home on West Linn street.

—Mr. and Mrs Horton S. Ray are rejoicing over the birth of a sweet little baby girl which came to their home on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. They are being showered with congratulations on the happy event.

—In the opening game of the foot ball season at Philadelphia Saturday Pennsylvania University defeated State College in a close game by the score of 6 to 0. State College team received a rousing reception on their return home.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Harris, of Scotia, are mourning the death of their bright little son, Herman, which sad event occurred Sunday morning. The funeral took place Wednesday morning. Rev. Capp officiating. Interment in Gray's cemetery.

—An English bull terrier pup which the editor of this paper values very highly, strayed away from home on Sunday morning. It has a black face, gray body with yellow spots, smooth coat, answers to the name of "Dixie." The finder will receive a suitable reward by returning the dog to this office.

—The Ladies Auxiliary at the hospital are going to hold a "Country Store" the last week in October, and they would like the friends of the hospital all over Centre county to donate articles for sale in this store. The cause is a worthy one and we hope the soliciting of donations may be heartily responded to.

—Mrs. Wm. Rider, of Scotia, died very suddenly Sunday evening while enjoying the evening meal. Heart disease is supposed to be the cause of her death. She was aged about 34 years and is survived by her husband and 4 children one an infant of 6 months. The funeral took place Tuesday. Interment at Gatesburg. Rev. Eslinger officiating.

—Milton Kerns, who has been Frank Sasserman's chief assistant in the latter's tonsorial parlor has decided to embark in business for himself and with that end in view has purchased Meh Graham's barber shop in the Garman House block and will take charge next Monday. Mr. Kerns is an expert at his business, is pleasant and accommodating and no doubt will receive a liberal share of patronage.

—Saturday dynamite was employed to blow a stump out of place on the site of the new high school building at Sixth avenue and Fifteenth street, Altoona. A piece of the stump was hurled through the double window of the Frank Heirgeist residence and struck Mrs. Heirgeist on the left arm inflicting a painful injury. Other pieces went flying hither and thither, breaking the glass in windows of various residences, one piece going through a window of St. Mary's school building a block away, while another piece went clean through the stable of a councilman who lives in the vicinity. Complaint to the mayor resulted in the stopping of blasting as a means of removing stumps from the site.

Wellington Musser Dead.

Wellington Musser, who made his home with his brother Wallace Musser, of the Branch, died on Sunday, September 18th of heart trouble and dropsy. He had been ill since early spring, but had been a cheerful sufferer, and his taking away is regretted by his many friends. He was 55 years old.

Mr. Musser was a cabinet maker by trade and a good all-around mechanic. While he was in health his services were constantly in demand, and he passed most of his time in the old Musser house which he used as a shop.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and interment was made in Boalsburg cemetery. Rev. J. I. Stonecypher officiated. —State College Times.

Aged Miner's Death.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 22 —Philip Wendling, 78 years old, the oldest anthracite miner in continuous and active service, was killed in the mines near Port Carbon.

For sixty years without a lapse he worked at the local collieries and he helped load the first coal which the Reading Railway took from Pottsville to Philadelphia. He never met with the slightest accident, although numbers of his companions were killed.

A week ago Wendling gloomily remarked: "My time is up." His quick death fulfilled this presentiment.

A Surprise to the Family.

The Washington Record, a colored new's paper, published in Washington, D C., on Sept. 16, contains the following article:

Quite a surprise was sprung upon Bellefonte society, when the news reached there that Mr, Edward M. Syphax, of Washington, D. C., who is one of our most worthy, and esteemed public school teachers, while at Long Branch during his summer vacation, has taken to himself a wife, a life partner in the person of Miss Florence May Jackson, of Bellefonte, Pa.

—Mattresses cleaned or repaired at greatly reduced prices for the next thirty days. All kinds of upholstering and repairs to furniture at reasonable rates. Ambrose Ray East Howard street. d-tf

How Did They Get Home?

Two of our young men, and who are members of the Ponies, went to Bellefonte Saturday afternoon for the express purpose of calling on their lady friends. When they arrived at their friends' home they were royally welcomed, but when supper time was at hand, the boys were served with a cold ice cream lunch instead of a good warm meal. After spending a few hours with the ladies they started for the train, but when they reached the station they learned that the train had left for Mill Hall. The boys got "together" and decided to walk to Milesburg and wait for a "side door" palace, so say their friends in this place, but as yet their friends have not learned how they got home.—Mill Hall Correspondent of the Lock Haven Express.

HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

THE GAME SEASON.

Hunters are Preparing for their Annual Sport, and big results are Anticipated.

As the game season approaches old hunters and Nimrod sportmen generally are making reading their armor for the war upon the wild game of the forest, and we may expect to hear big stories of great feats coming in from the mountain such as would fill a big book with matter calculated to raise the hair of the weak and swell the breasts of the brave. There will be heroes to burn at the close of the season, doubtless. But, to start with, the hunting will be of the milder sort. Of course the bear season is always on, but not until the the deer can be killed does the onslaught on bruin start in real earnest. Below are dates which game may be killed in Pennsylvania, under the law:

Wild turkeys, October 15 to December 15.

Quail and partridges, October 15 to December 15.

Pheasants, ruff, grouse and prairie chicken, Oct. 15 to December 15.

Woodcock, month of July and October 15 to December 15,

Rail and reed bird, September 1 to November 30.

Plover, July 15 to January 1.

Geese and ducks, September 1, to May 1.

Elk and deer, November 1 to 30.

Squirrel, October 15 to December 15.

Hare and rabbit, November 1 to December 15

No more than 10 pheasants or ruff grouse, 2 wild turkeys, 10 woodcock or 15 quail must be killed by one person in one day, and no more than two deer in any one year. Killing, wounding or taking any game birds or animals with trap, net, snare, bird lime, poison or drugs is prohibited. The use of ferrets in hunting game is prohibited. Deer must not be hunted with dogs or in the waters of any stream or pond, under penalty of $100 for each offense. Sunday hunting is prohibited. The killing of birds, other than game birds, is not permitted.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

Henry C. Quigley Endorsed for State Senator.

The Republican County convention held at Grange Park, Centre Hall on Thursday was largely attended in spite of the fact that there was no contest to be made.

The convention was called to order in the big Auditorium by County Chairman Philip D. Foster and Secretary Harry Keller read the call for the convention and the roll of delegates. For Permanent Chairman of the convention Hon. William M. Allison was chosen. The only business before the convention was the selection of a candidate for State Senator. Col. E. R. Chambers arose and in a neat, speech withdrew his name as a candidate. This left only one in the field, Henry C. Quigley Esq., and he was named by acclamation. Mr. Quigley made an eloquent address which was received with marked enthusiasm. He thanked the convention for the honor conferred, and urged upon the voters the necessity of supporting the entire Republican ticket from top to bottom.

He selected as his conferees Samuel H Wigton, of Philipsburg; Hon. Wm. M. Allison, of Spring Mills and W. E. Hartsock of Patton township.

IRVIN NOMINATED.

The district conference met at Lock Haven at noon Friday and nominated Col. E. A. Irvin, of Curwensville, for State Senator.

62 Lives Lost!

Knoxville, Tenn., September 27.—The death list as the result of a fearful wreck on the Southern railroad near Newmarket, on Saturday, has grown to sixty-two, and it will probably exceed seventy as many of the injured are in a serious condition, and more deaths will occur at the hospitals. Sunday there were six deaths at these institutions, the last one occurring Sunday night, when M. P. Cent, a prominent North Carolinian residing at Shamby, N. C., passed away.
